Society in Fancy Dress Forty Years Ago

YOU are familiar with the names and photographs of the social leaders of New York of to-day; but do you know how some of them looked when debutantes? "The Sun" next Sunday will reproduce a rare collection of photographs of society celebrities, in fancy dress, who participated in a subscription ball in 1875. The dance was the most elaborate and important social event of the time and in the collection are photographs of women who are society leaders to-day.
